

The Articles of Confederation

The Big Idea

The Articles of Confederation provided a framework for a national government.

Main Ideas

- The American people examined many ideas about government.
- The Articles of Confederation laid the base for the first national government of the United States.
- The Confederation Congress established the Northwest Territory.

Next

Main Idea 1: The American people examined many ideas about government.

- English laws that limited the power of the king were the Magna Carta and the English Bill of Rights.
- The Enlightenment was a philosophical movement that emphasized the use of reason to examine old ideas and traditions.
- John Locke believed a social contract existed between political rulers and the people they ruled.

Previous

Next

American Models of Government

- Early models of self-government were town meetings, the Virginia House of Burgesses, and the Mayflower Compact.
- The constitution of each state limited government and protected rights of citizens.
- Thomas Jefferson's ideas on religious freedom were written in the Virginia Statute for Religious Freedom.
- Many state constitutions provided suffrage, or the right to vote, to most white men who paid taxes.

Previous

Next

Main Idea 2: The Articles of Confederation laid the base for the first national government of the United States.

- The Articles of Confederation created a national government with limited powers.
  - Congress could settle conflicts among states, make coins, borrow money, ask states for money and soldiers, and make treaties with other nations.
  - States had the power to refuse requests.
  - There was not a president or a national court system.
- The Second Continental Congress passed the Articles of Confederation on November 15, 1777, and sent them to each state for ratification.
- The first national government of the United States was established after the last state ratified the Articles in March 1781.

Previous

Next

Main Idea 3: The Confederation Congress established the Northwest Territory.

- Congress passed Land Ordinance of 1785 to raise money to pay debts.
  - Ordinance provided for surveying and dividing western lands.
  - Land was split into townships.
  - Each township was divided into lots for sale to the public.
- Congress passed Northwest Ordinance of 1787.
  - Established Northwest Territory and a system for creating new states
  - Included what are now the states of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, Minnesota, and Wisconsin
  - Required the provision of public education and banned slavery

Previous

Next

The New Nation Faces Challenges

The Big Idea

Problems faced by the young nation made it clear that a new constitution was needed.

Main Ideas

- The United States had difficulties with other nations.
- Internal economic problems plagued the new nation.
- Shays's Rebellion pointed out weaknesses in the Articles of Confederation.
- Many Americans called for changes in the national government.

Previous

Next

Chapter 5

Main Idea 1: The United States had difficulties with other nations.

- Britain refused to turn over its forts in U.S. territory to American control.
- Britain closed off trade with the British West Indies and imposed high tariffs on American merchants.
- Spain closed the lower Mississippi to shipping.

Previous

Next

Impact of Closed Markets

- Closing markets in the British West Indies caused American exports to drop.
- Cheap British goods flowed into the United States.
- The Confederation Congress had no authority to pass tariffs, or order states to pass tariffs, to help correct unequal trade with Britain.
  - States worked independently to increase their own trade instead of improving the situation for the whole country.
- American merchants were forced to look for new markets in China, France, and the Netherlands.

Previous

Next

Main Idea 2: Internal economic problems plagued the new nation.

- The Confederation Congress had no power to regulate interstate commerce, making trade difficult across state lines.
- Inflation was a problem in many states, which struggled to pay off war debts by printing money.
  - Money was not backed by gold or silver, so it was worth less.
- Loss of trade with Britain combined with inflation caused an economic depression.
  - Depression is a period of low economic activity combined with a rise in unemployment.

Previous

Next

Main Idea 3: Shays's Rebellion pointed out weaknesses in the Articles of Confederation.

- Daniel Shays led Massachusetts farmers in a revolt over high taxes and heavy debt in August 1786.
- Shays's Rebellion was put down by state troops in January 1787.
  - Tried to force the shutdown of the Supreme Court in Massachusetts
  - No one's property could be taken to pay off debts if the court was closed.
- Many citizens agreed with the rebels and their cause.
  - State officials freed most of the rebels.

Previous

Next

Main Idea 4: Many Americans called for changes in the national government.

- Shays's Rebellion showed the weaknesses of the Confederation government, which could not respond to Massachusetts's call for help.
  - People saw that the ideals of liberty were not protected.
  - People called for a stronger central government that could protect the nation in times of crisis.
- The Virginia legislature called for a national conference to change the Articles of Confederation.
- The Annapolis Convention held in September 1786 failed to act.
- The Constitutional Convention was called in May 1787 in Philadelphia to revise the Articles of Confederation.

Previous

Next

Creating the Constitution

The Big Idea

A new constitution provided a framework for a stronger national government.

Main Ideas

- The Constitutional Convention met to improve the government of the United States.
- The issue of representation led to the Great Compromise.
- Regional debate over slavery led to the Three-Fifths Compromise.
- The U.S. Constitution created federalism and a balance of power.

Previous

Next

Main Idea 1: The Constitutional Convention met to improve the government of the United States.

- Constitutional Convention held in Philadelphia in 1787
- Convention leaders included James Madison, Benjamin Franklin, and George Washington.
- Goal was to improve the Articles of Confederation.
  - Delegates decided to create a new U.S. Constitution.

Previous

Next

Main Idea 2: The issue of representation led to the Great Compromise.

- Virginia Plan gave larger states more representation because it was based on population.
- New Jersey Plan gave smaller states equal representation with larger states.
- Great Compromise resolved issue with a two-house legislature.
- An upper house—the Senate—provided for two representatives from each state.
- A lower house—the House of Representatives—provided for representation based on state population.

Previous

Next

Chapter 5

Main Idea 3: Regional debate over slavery led to the Three-Fifths Compromise.

The South

Wanted slaves to be counted as part of their population

The North

Wanted slaves counted only to determine taxes but not for representation

Three-Fifths compromise

Resolved differences by counting each slave as three-fifths of a person

Previous

Next

Main Idea 4: The U.S. Constitution created federalism and a balance of power.

- Ensured popular sovereignty: idea that political authority resided in the people
- Provided for federalism: sharing of power between states and federal government
- Required states to obey authority of the federal government
- Gave states control over functions not assigned to the federal government

Previous

Next

Checks and Balances

Constitution designed to balance power among three branches of government.

- Legislative branch to make the laws
- Executive branch to carry out the laws
- Judicial branch to interpret the laws

- System of checks and balances keeps branches from becoming too powerful.
- Congress has power to pass bills into law.
- President can veto laws passed.
- Supreme Court can strike down unconstitutional laws.

Previous

Next

Ratifying the Constitution

The Big Idea

Americans carried on a vigorous debate before ratifying the Constitution.

Main Ideas

- Federalists and Antifederalists engaged in debate over the new Constitution.
- The Federalist Papers played an important role in the fight for ratification of the Constitution.
- Ten amendments were added to the Constitution to provide a Bill of Rights to protect citizens.

Previous

Next

Main Idea 1: Federalists and Antifederalists engaged in debate over the new Constitution.

Federalists

- Supported Constitution
- Desired strong central government
- Liked balance of powers in Constitution
- Made speeches and pamphlets advocating change in government

Antifederalists

- Opposed Constitution
- Feared central government would be too powerful
- Concerned about lack of guarantee of individual rights
- George Mason became Antifederalist over rights issue

Previous

Next

Main Idea 2: The Federalist Papers played an important role in the fight for ratification of the Constitution.

- Federalist Papers: series of essays supporting the Constitution
- Written anonymously by Alexander Hamilton, John Jay, and James Madison
- Federalist Papers argued that new federal government would not overpower states
- Widely reprinted in newspapers around the country; influenced the Constitution debate

Previous

Next

Battle for Ratification

- Each state needed to ratify the Constitution.
- All states except Rhode Island held ratification conventions for citizens to discuss and vote on the Constitution.
- Delaware was the first state to ratify, in 1787, and Rhode Island was the last, in 1790.
- New York and Virginia debated over ratification, but finally ratified.
  - Political leaders knew these states were important, since Virginia had the largest population in the nation, and New York was an important center for business and trade.

Previous

Next

Main Idea 3: Ten amendments were added to the Constitution to provide a Bill of Rights to protect citizens.

- Several states ratified the Constitution only after the promise of a bill protecting individual rights.
- Congress responded by passing a Bill of Rights to be added to the Constitution as amendments.
- Upon ratification by the states in December 1791, the Bill of Rights became the first ten amendments to the Constitution.
  - Gave a clear example of how to amend the Constitution to fit the needs of a changing nation
  - Flexibility of the Constitution has allowed it to survive for over 200 years.

Previous

Next